

Bugs, Bugs,
Bugs

Thursday,
July 10, 7 p.m.

Jessica Ware and Debin Sun, graduate students in the Department of Entomology, Rutgers University will talk about different orders of insects with particular emphasis on metamorphosis, camouflage, and mosquitoes. Insects that are pests and those that are beneficial will be discussed. Live specimens will be shown.

Recommended for families with children ages 5 and up.

Mother Nature

Thursday, July 17, 7 p.m.

Kitty Jones of Kit's Interactive Theatre will perform her one woman show which combines history, music, dance and improvisation where audience members are cast right into the show.

The delicate balance of the ecosystem is revealed by Mother Nature and her friends. Respect for our good Earth and all her creatures is whimsically yet poignantly depicted.

Recommended for families with children ages 5 and up.

Funding provided by Clean Communities.
